

British Deny Talk Of Peace Effected By Loan to Nazis

Berlin Officials Credit
Themselves With Gain in 'Battle of Nerves' in Europe

'Purely Academic'

All Talk of Large Loan to Germany 'Absolutely Unofficial'

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON—British foreign office denies persistent reports of peace settlement through huge international loan to Germany in return for German disarmament pledge.

BERLIN—German officials credit themselves with victory in "battle of nerves" because of sharp foreign reaction to spokesman's reiteration that Germany will win Danzig without bloodshed.

TOKYO—Britain and Japan agree on form and subjects for discussion at negotiations over their eastern dispute.

DANZIG—Free city authorities report 10 Polish youths arrested when they "invaded" Danzig last night.

Reports Denied

(By The Associated Press)

Persistent reports of an impending peace deal with Germany were denied indignantly by British today while Berlin officials credited themselves with another victory in the European "battle of nerves."

"All talk of a large loan to Germany in return for partial disarmament is absolutely unofficial and purely academic," said the British foreign office spokesman. Speculation on a possible settlement through an international loan to change German economy from a wartime to a peacetime basis had centered around the visit to London by Dr. Helmuth Wohlthat, German trade ambassador, who returned today to Berlin.

He conferred in London with Sir Horace Wilson, permanent secretary to the treasury and close adviser of Prime Minister Chamberlain. In Berlin he denied he had conducted negotiations for any "peace" loan.

Evidence of Willingness

The British foreign office spokesman said that "before any scheme for a general settlement can be considered by the British government, there must be some evidence of Germany's willingness to change her policy."

Reports pouring into Berlin of the "sensational" effect of yesterday's statement by an official spokesman created satisfaction among German officials, though foreign office sources insisted there was nothing new in the assertion that Germany is confident Danzig will be regained soon without bloodshed and on German terms.

Treatment of the statement as new in other countries was merely an indication of "ragged nerves," they declared.

Poland was standing firm against Nazi pressure but the course of her Soviet neighbor remained unpredictable. A Moscow announcement last night disclosed that talks with Germany had been resumed after the sudden interruption of preliminaries last January.

Negotiations Resumed

Resumption of negotiations after two previous failures held disturbing possibilities both for Poland and British-French attempts to bring Russia into a mutual assistance agreement.

London financial circles said a "gentlemen's agreement" had been reached giving Poland the right to spend $38,800,000 British-French rearmament loan wherever she wishes, but requiring Warsaw to inform London of where arms purchases are made.

In Tokyo British and Japanese representatives agreed on the date and subjects for discussion at an impending parley on their Far Eastern dispute. Japanese sources said Britain had accepted "all Japanese proposals" including recognition of the necessity of measures taken by the Japanese army in China.

No Connection With Death

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., July 22 (AP)—George F. Busted, 42, died of a heart attack early today after what Detective Capt. George Brophy asserted was a fight in a tavern. Brophy said Francis Brynes, 43, Harmon, was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct and public intoxication in an admitted fight with Busted. Dr. Howard P. Carpenter, deputy county medical examiner, said after an autopsy Busted died of "chronic myocarditis and acute dilation of the heart" and added "the incident which preceded had no connection with his death."

Laying Mine Fields

Hongkong, July 22 (AP)—The Hongkong government was informed officially today that the Japanese Navy was laying mine fields along several Kwangtung Province coastal stretches, across the entrances to a large bay north-east of Amoy and also across entrances to two bays immediately north of Swatow.

Lad's Father Aids in Search

Donald Fendler, (top right), of Rye, goes over a map at Millinocket, Me., in hopes of aiding searchers for his son, Donn, 12, who disappeared on the wild slopes of nearby Mt. Katahdin. Standing is State Patrolman Maynard Lindsay, and seated, State Patrolman Edward Thibodeau. Searchers expressed fear the lad had tumbled over a precipice. Mountaineers said hopes were "very slim" for finding the lad (shown left). Four days of search failed to locate the boy.

Farley Packs His Bag for Hyde Park

Democratic Chairman Says
He'll Make His Own
Party Statements

New York, July 22 (AP)—Postmaster General James A. Farley packed his bag today for a weekend visit with President Roosevelt, the man for whose election and reelection he worked tirelessly in 1932 and '36.

There was no hint, in the announcement from Hyde Park that Farley was going to the summer White House, as to what the two master strategists would talk about.

However, it was considered likely that the President and the Democratic national chairman would make a fairly thorough canvass of the 1940 outlook.

Farley, who has made it his business to keep in close touch with public sentiment throughout the country, sails for Europe next week and it will be his last opportunity to talk to his chief for several weeks.

Prior to his departure tomorrow for Hyde Park, where he will remain overnight, Farley declined to disclose his own feelings toward a third term for Mr. Roosevelt.

In a statement, he said: "Whenever I have any comment to make on any political position of mine, now or in the future, I will make it myself, and I am not responsible for any statements or comments attributed to me."

'Third Term Boom'

Washington, July 22 (AP)—President Roosevelt contends that business will suffer from congress failure to reverse the neutrality law at this session, but Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.) says he isn't clear what boom is about to be deflated "unless it's the third term boom."

Cigarette 'Smugglers' Who Try To Aid Friends Subject to Fine

New York, July 22 (AP)—The good-natured New Jersey or Connecticut commuter who ferries cigarettes into New York to save his friends extra tax costs was warned today he was liable to a $5,000 fine and a year in jail.

A drive to stop friendly "smuggling" of cigarettes to avoid payment of a two-cents-a-package New York state tax and a cent-a-pack New York city levy was arranged yesterday at conferences between city and state tax officials.

James LaMotte, assistant director of the State Commodities Tax Bureau, said 35 examiners from the bureau would be assigned Monday to bridges, ferries and tunnels linking New York and New Jersey to seize violators of the cigarette tax measure.

LaMotte said the city probably

Footprints Spur Searchers for Boy On Maine Mountain

Trail Leads Men Into Bog
and Hopes Increase That Lad Might Be Found;
Thousands Hunt

Millinocket, Me., July 22 (AP)—Spurred by the discovery of a new set of footprints below the timberline, haggard-eyed searchers penetrated today into a bog's swampy reaches seeking 12-year-old Donn Fendler, lost on lofty Mount Katahdin since Monday.

Hopes which had waned during four days of grueling examination of thick woods and sheer precipices, rose last night with the uncovering of the prints half-way between Chimney Pond Trail and the Hunt Trail, from which the Rye, N. Y., boy had wandered. Bloodhounds brought a posse to the bog's brink.

Alfred Beaulieu, a state game warden, said he was confident the footprints "would lead to something encouraging." Similar prints during the past few days, however, have been followed fruitlessly.

State Police Sergeant Frank Hall, directing the widespread search of the mountain's rocky slopes, issued a call for volunteers expert in scaling some of its precipitous crags.

Thousands of climbers in the past have toiled to the peak of the 5,273-foot eminence, highest in Maine, without mishap. A number have been lost and found again.

Young Fendler left the Hunt trail while hiking with his father, a New York clothing company president, and two brothers.

Since his disappearance National Guardsmen, timber cruisers, forest and game wardens have worked shoulder to shoulder in an almost incessant search.

Coolies Substituted

Shanghai, July 22 (AP)—Coolies were substituted for telephones and postage stamps were used for currency today as Shanghai's money crisis spread to affect nearly everyone in the city.

Senators Say FDR Will Sign Measure

Hatch Bill Goes to Chief
Without Senate Vote

Washington, July 22 (AP)—Usually well-informed senators forecast today that President Roosevelt would sign the Hatch bill despite some criticism he has made of the measure, which prohibits political activity by most federal employees.

The Senate sent the bill to the White House yesterday without a vote being recorded against it, but only after a stormy scene which developed over talk of side-tracking it.

Weeks ago, the chamber passed the bill unanimously. It came before the senators again on the question of accepting minor House amendments. Senator Hatch (D., N. M.) warned that to reject them would mean sending the measure "to the graveyard."

Those who predicted today that Mr. Roosevelt would sign the bill pointed to public utterances in which the President expressed approval of its major objectives.

Demonstration Staged

Chefoo, China, July 22 (AP)—Several hundred persons held a menacer demonstration today around the British consulate here but no material damage was done. The crowd shouted threats and demanded Britain's withdrawal from China.

B. C. Van Ingen Given Official City Farewell

Members of Board of Education and Authorities
Pay Tribute at Dinner—Van Ingen Attends
Final Meeting—Trustees Are Praised

Bart C. Van Ingen, who for 17 years has been associated with the Kingston school system, was given an official farewell last evening by the members of the Board of Education as he attended his last regular session of the board in the capacity of superintendent of schools.

Van Ingen will be succeeded on August 1 by Arthur J. Laidlaw, who comes from Ogdensburg to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Prof. Van Ingen.

Prior to the meeting of the Board of Education, members of the board and city officials tendered Mr. Van Ingen a dinner at the Governor Clinton Hotel. At that meeting Mayor Conrad J. Heislman paid tribute to Mr. Van Ingen for the splendid service which he has rendered the city since he became associated with the school system, first as an instructor in the high school, later as principal of the high school and then as superintendent of schools.

Officials Present

This farewell dinner was attended by Mayor Heislman, Alderman-at-large John J. Salvendy, Corporation Counsel John M. Cashing, Chief of Police J. Allan Wood, Fire Chief Joseph Murphy, Acting City Treasurer Joseph A. Fassbender, City Engineer James G. Norton, City Clerk Edgar J. Dempsey and all members of the Board of Education.

At each of the eighteen places were place cards, each with a witty verse, which had been designed and made by Miss Kathryn D. Fogarty of Public School No. 2.

A second recognition of Prof. Van Ingen's long and faithful service came at the meeting of the board which was held Friday evening.

Trustees Give Chair

Attending his last meeting of the board Mr. Van Ingen was presented with an easy chair "in which to relax and remember the happy days that were spent here."

The presentation was made by Trustee Charles Katz in behalf of the present members of the Board of Education and former Trustees Cragin and Walter whose terms terminated a few weeks ago. Mr. Katz in presenting the chair said it was a material token of the appreciation of the board for the services and cooperation which had been given the board and former boards by Mr. Van Ingen during his service here.

Trustee Katz said that since this was the last meeting of the board at which Prof. Van Ingen would act as superintendent the members desired to express their sincere thanks and appreciation for the innumerable services which Mr. Van Ingen had rendered.

"From actual experience I know what your helpfulness has meant to us," said Mr. Katz and he continued with a word of praise for the manner in which Mr. Van Ingen had "helped serve the best interest of the city." He referred to the devotion to duty, the helpfulness which Mr. Van Ingen had given the board and the various committees and he spoke of the extremely difficult task which had faced the superintendent as well as the board during the past few years during the crowded condition of the city schools and the recent construction program and re-adjustment which was made with the erection of the Myron J. Michael School. In conclusion he wished for Mr. and Mrs. Van Ingen "just those things you have hoped for and expected when your active school work was over."

Serious Problem

In reply Mr. Van Ingen wished for the board "and the new administration just that same splendid cooperation that I have enjoyed." He said the past eight or ten years had brought about a serious school problem, largely based upon the economic situation and there had been "trying times" for the board members. Nevertheless he said the relations between his board and past boards have been most pleasant. He said many problems had been "thrown in our laps but you have solved them well" and he said that even though his active interests in the educational system was terminating on August first he did not intend to lose interest in the educational problem as a whole or in Kingston and the young people who have been turned out from its educational centers.

Prof. Van Ingen said since he had been associated with the Kingston school system 3,420 students had been graduated and he would like to continue his interest in all of them.

In Behalf of Student

A communication was received from J. Edward Conway in behalf of a student of the town of Ulster who had been absent from high school for a long period during her four years attendance at high school. An adjustment was sought allowing her to attend summer

Socialite Held in Auto Mishap

Audrey Gray, (above) 21-year-old socialite from Locust Valley, L. I., was freed under $1,500 bond on a reckless driving charge of Putnam, Conn., after a motorcar driven by her was involved in an accident in which two boys on bicycles were seriously injured. One of the lads, Wilfred Martineau, 14, lost his arm as a result of the mishap and his brother, Gerard, 10, sustained a possible skull fracture.

From an examination made Baxter had probably been dead nearly an hour when the accident was discovered. The car after failing to make the curve struck the fence near the center of the "S" curve and then went off the road down an embankment. Apparently Baxter had been driving toward East Kingston at the time.

Sheriff Molyneux and Deputy Charles McCullough responded to the call for help and with State Trooper Benson and others at the scene rolled the car off the body, sufficiently to release the man. Trooper Reilly summoned the Conner ambulance.

Coroner Called

Dr. Olivet was summoned to the scene but when the car had been removed from the body and it was seen that Mr. Baxter was dead Coroner Lasher of Saugerties was notified and gave a verdict of accidental death. The remains were taken in charge of the W. N. Conner Funeral Home and moved to that establishment.

Where Mr. Baxter was bound at the time of the accident is not known. He had been employed at various gas stations about the city and at one time was employed by one of the oil companies as a truck driver. Of late he had been employed by the Cornell Steamboat Co., but had lost that position yesterday according to friends.

Fay noticed the car off the road as he rounded the curve and found the headlights turned on. The ignition switch was also on at the time.

Troopers at Scene

Sergeant James Cunningham and Trooper Walter Keefe of Saugerties also learned of the crash and came to the scene.

So far as is known there was no other car involved in the accident and apparently Baxter was riding alone at the time of the crash.

Sheriff Molyneux communicated with the Kingston police and requested they get in touch with the young man's folks.

Funeral arrangements, in charge of James M. Murphy, local undertaker, were not completed today.

Man Seized, Kills Wife

New York July 22 (AP)—A 60-year old coffee importer was seized in his Bronx apartment today after a shooting and stabbing foxy which left his wife dead, his children badly frightened from stray shots and himself with a scissor wound in the chest. Assistant District Attorney George A. Sarny, said the man, Arthur Spiropolos, shot and killed his wife, Angelica, 47, emptied his .38 calibre pistol with wild shots at his daughter, Jennie, 16, and then stabbed himself. Detectives Timothy Mara and George Buddemeyer said Spiropolos told them the shooting followed an argument in which he accused his wife of having been overfriendly with a cousin.

Won't Wear 'Rags'

Dublin, July 22 (AP)—Dublin's first woman mayor Mrs. Tom Clarke, refused today to wear the robes of office because she said they were "red rags" from the British period as is the charter of Dublin.

An ardent Irish nationalist, she removed from the hall of the mansion a portrait of Queen Victoria as a young woman dressed in white crinoline with a red sash and jewelry.

Weather outlook for the period July 24 to July 29, 1939, inclusive: North and middle Atlantic states: local showers Monday and rather general showers about Thursday; otherwise generally fair. Warmer Monday, slightly cooler Tuesday, warmer by Thursday and cooler at end of week.

Ponckhockie Man's Broken Body Is Found Under Coupe by George Fay of East Kingston

Verdict Given

Coroner Says Death Due to Accident; Car Lights
Turned on

Maurice C. Baxter, 27, of 44 Yoemans street, was crushed to death under his coupe last night on the Flatbush road when the car failed to make the "S" curve just beyond the Paradise Inn and overturned. The body was not discovered until some time after the accident when George Fay of East Kingston discovered the car and man as he drove toward home. This was about 12:40 o'clock.

As Fay drove past he saw the car with a man's hand protruding and called Sheriff Molyneux and State Troopers Reilly and Benson. From all appearance Baxter had been dead some time when the officers arrived on the scene.

Thrown From Car

From the position of the body Baxter must have been thrown from the car as it left the road after clipping off half a dozen fence posts and then as it turned over on its side it rolled over on him. The car lay on its head and body, with his legs and hands protruding from underneath.

From an examination made Baxter had probably been dead nearly an hour when the accident was discovered. The car after failing to make the curve struck the fence near the center of the "S" curve and then went off the road down an embankment. Apparently Baxter had been driving toward East Kingston at the time.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

Relativity
Bedford, Ind.—When a prisoner in Lawrence county jail calls another "brother," he probably means just that.

There are five pairs of brothers in jail now, including a set of 21-year-old twins.

Safer Than Ever
Columbus, Ind.—To have it handy, County Auditor Leonard R. Thayer wrote the combination of the office safe right on the side.

WPA workers cleaning the court house came along and scrubbed the safe, wiping out Thayer's motto.

Now he can't get it open.

Trailer Widow
Dallas—A Dallas woman told Judge Paine L. Bush she had lived in a trailer more than five years. "I've had all I can stand," she pleaded for a divorce.

She got it.

Flood?
Cherokee, Okla.—Water shortage interrupted work on a $3,000, 600-foot control project.

Salt Fork river, which the project was designed to curb, went dry, halting work two days. Engineer Philip F. Goodman solved the problem by hauling water from wells.

Tight Fit
Evanston, Ill.—Sixteen year old Mildred Harmon, whose favorite school subject is chemistry, was anxious to have a life mask of herself so she applied a mass of damp plaster of paris to her face and waited for it to harden.

When she discovered that she could not remove the mask, she was taken to Evanston Hospital, where the unmasking operation was performed by physicians. The extent of her injuries was less of her eye lashes. But she bought some new ones at a drug store.

Fitting Alibi
Council Bluffs, Ia.—Miss H. E. Day was before Municipal Judge James Sheeman on a charge of overtime parking.

"Well," she said, "I was shopping for a hat. I didn't intend to buy one when I went in, but you know how it is."

"Yes, I do," replied the court. "The fine is $1 and costs—suspended."

PHOENICIA
Phoenicia, July 21.—Mrs. Ralph Draffen of Grand Gorge spent Wednesday with her father, Orville Hill.

Miss Anne Simpson of Buffalo is spending her vacation at her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Muller and son of Grand Gorge, Mrs. John Thumser and daughters of Lynbrook, L. I., spent Sunday with their sister, Mrs. Roy Donovan.

Donald Clark of Kingston spent the week-end with friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Shurtler entertained friends from New York the first of the week.

HEROES. YOUNG AND OLD

Donald Hathaway, 4, knew what to do when his 2-year-old sister, Lorana, fell into a lily pond in a Chicago suburb and sank beneath the surface. He called Charles Peters, a neighbor who was in and saved the little girl. Here Donald rewards Peters with a kiss.

WEST SHOKAN

West Shokan, July 22.—Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bell are here from Wyoming visiting old friends. Mr. Bell grew up in this neighborhood and as a young man went to Pennsylvania where he worked in the lumber woods, occasionally making trips back home. During one summer he was a fireman on the old Ulster and Delaware railroad.

Subsequently he drifted west and for the past 30 years has been steadily employed in train service with the Chicago and North Western railroad. For many years he has held the rank of conductor.

Mr. and Mrs. Bell made their last trip east in 1920. Saturday evening Mr. Bell visited Shokan L. O. Lodge of which he has been a member for the past 34 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Bell will visit the New York World's Fair and return home by way of Kentucky and Missouri. Mrs. Bell is a native of Valentine, Nebraska. She and Mrs. Blanche Rodriguez now of Watson Hollow road are life-long friends and old schoolmates.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Vincent of Port Jervis, together with his sister, Mrs. Hilson and her daughter and husband, of New Jersey called on Mrs. Chase Davis at West Shokan Heights, Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Hilson and her daughter, Mrs. Hamlin boarded with Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Bishop 22 years ago.

Contractor Albert North has completed work on a new concrete storage reservoir on the Dolan estate.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Massimo of West Shokan received news Wednesday morning of the sudden death in New York City, of their daughter, Mrs. Curran. She and the four children had returned home Sunday after visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Massimo.

Mitchell Avery, of Wallkill, well-known former resident was a week-end visitor.

Mrs. Bertha Dulofo, who is employed in Kingston, is spending her vacation with her husband and mother in Boiceville.

Mrs. Garret Mott and mother, Mrs. Violetta Dodge, of Flatbush, have arrived at the family summer home on Main street.

Mr. C. Davis harvested part of his field of oats for hay this week in the milk stage.

Contractor Albert North is building new front and north side rear entrance steps at the Baptist Church. Also making other repairs.

Cornelia Davis is assisting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin

J. Gulnac and family in Ashokan. Mrs. Nettie Jones of West Shokan Heights is visiting with her niece, Mrs. Richard Bruckner and family at West Hurley.

Local church attendance was largely increased Sunday afternoon. The Rev. Mr. Bailey gave the sermon. Mrs. Helen Twedy presided as organist. Time of service is 2:30 o'clock each Sunday. All are assured of a cordial welcome to attend.

Wednesday afternoon and evening, July 26, the annual fair and supper of the West Shokan Baptist Church will be held. Serving of the roast beef supper will begin at 6 o'clock.

Morton Roe of West Shokan Heights has harvested the hay on the Dolan farm.

Mrs. Katherine Wagner of Main street recently had a new Sears cabinet sink installed.

Sanford Bell was given a surprise party last week at Mr. and Mrs. Levi Jensen's, on the occasion of his 80th birthday. About 30 friends and neighbors attended the gathering, featured by music, dancing and refreshments.

The Hamilton family from New Jersey are occupying the Sam Scudder summer property at West Shokan Heights for two weeks.

Miss Idella Vandemark of Kingston spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Vandemark.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Davis and visiting friends Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bell spent Wednesday afternoon in Kingston. On Thursday an enjoyable trip was made over Peekapoogee trail and down the Lackawack valley.

Herbie Wells, Skippy Weidner, Robert Robeson, the Eisele boys and other members of the community scout troop, have been spending two weeks at Camp Half Moon near Cairo. Several of the boys won swimming awards and showed distinct ability in various other camp activities. Leaders Charles L. Weidner and Don Bishop spent Saturday night with the boys at camp before they returned home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bishop motored to Schenectady Sunday after her mother, Mrs. Leona Gessner, who is spending two weeks here at their West Shokan Heights home.

Morton Roe is cutting his oats for hay curing.

Due to the continued drought, Jordan brothers and Morton Roe were obliged to bring their young stock home from summer pasture on the Kuykut range.

Edward Every and Seymour Winne, Jr. are harvesting hay for Mrs. Martin Every at Traver Hollow.

CONSERVE OUR WATER

Since the first of May the city has been gripped by a drouth that has greatly increased the consumption of water beyond normal until it has been found necessary for the water department to limit the hours of sprinkling gardens and lawns in Kingston to two hours in the evening.

Residents should realize the urgent need of conserving water at this time, and should respond promptly to the efforts being made to avoid waste.

Basing Kingston's population at 30,000 it is figured that 183 gallons per person is being consumed daily in Kingston, or rather wasted.

While home owners should feel proud of their lawns and gardens they should also realize that it is of far greater benefit to every resident of the city to have a supply of water on tap at all times.

Cooper's Lake at the present time is six feet below normal, and unless the drouth is soon broken there is no question but that the danger of a water famine will increase in the city. It is far better to conserve water at this time than to regret the lack of conservation later.

While Kingston residents are being urged to conserve water there is also the danger in the areas outside the city of a disastrous forest fire. With but little rain in the last three months the forests have become bone dry and it requires but a spark to start a roaring conflagration.

Those who use the roads and paths through the forests of Ulster county should be careful not to start a fire by dropping a lighted cigarette or cigar. Hunters should also exercise care while in the woods this summer.

There is an old saying that it is better to be safe than sorry; that applies to the conservation of our water supplies and to avoid all danger of forest fires, not only in times of drouth but at all times.

THESE STRANGE TIMES

These are strange times, which possibly nobody really understands. But sometimes it seems to dispassionate onlookers as if business men, capitalists and politicians understand them less than others. These classes may be so close to the problem and so deeply concerned for their own fortunes that they "can't see the woods for the trees."

The first fact to be grasped, perhaps, by anyone inclined to honest and serious thinking along this line, is that the economic, social and political troubles of the American people today are not confined to our own country. They appear in nearly all of the other countries.

Canada has just as great an unemployment problem as we have, in proportion to her population, with one-tenth of her people on the public dole, and little sign of improvement. England is in much the same plight, although military expansion is now relieving the stress temporarily. The economic plight of France is well known; only the war scare and munition business give that country some semblance of business normality.

The dictatorship countries were hit by this blight before we were. They keep their people employed and seem to be "going concerns" only by using military methods in every phase of life, by adopting some "ideology" as a specious form of salvation, and covering up their actual economic condition.

Speaking in general, it is the most highly industrialized countries that have been hardest hit. The Scandinavian nations and some of their small neighbors seem to have dodged the general danger by working out a balanced national economy, combining private enterprise, public enterprise and the intermediate "cooperative" type of business in about equal degree.

The most disquieting fact, to people who believe, as a vast majority of Americans do, in private capitalism, is that almost everywhere, when these economic-social-political crises occur, the measures turned to for ease-ment are "collective" in nature. The supreme problem of today is this drift toward state socialism, appearing in the free countries as social democracy.

It is an open question whether this drift will, or can be, stopped. Many unbiased observers are inclined to think that we may find refuge from the danger of complete socialism in the halfway Scandinavian system, which seems to have established harmony among individual enterprise, private group enterprise and government enterprise.

BIG ROAD TAX

People who like to grouse about taxes seem to have a pretty good opportunity in the gasoline taxes. The total payments by motorists are reported by the Automobile Manufacturers Association as $1,530,000,000 for last year.

The average tax was nearly five cents a gallon. The yield collected at gas stations, about two-thirds of the whole, was $977,000,000. So John Q. Motorist is, as you might say, a billion-dollar man.

The average "incidence," as a statistician would call it, was $33 per car. There are minor taxes, too, which an automobile pays invisibly.

On the whole, though, outside of automobile associations and suchlike groups, you hear less complaint about this tax than almost any other. Motorists usually feel that they are getting their money back in good roads. It is largely such taxes that have built our great national and state highway systems and that keep them up.

And even with this tax, our gasoline prices in America are said to be the lowest in the world—as they should be, with our supply of petroleum and our facility in manufacturing and distributing its products.

Dr. Eduard Benes criticizes Kansas farmers for not picking up all their wheat when they harvest. It is an old saying that Europe could live on what Americans waste.

One of the grandest things about royalty is the way kings can make so many people happy by passing around their pictures.

Another thing this country needs is children strong-minded enough to make their parents behave themselves.

The latest word is that death is taking a holiday till the Nazis get their crops in.

Better go off the deep end, if you're diving.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.) CAUSES AND TREATMENT OF ASTHMA

I write often about asthma because so many suffer with it and because, as medical students, we were taught that the cause was unknown and there was no cure. Relief from any attack was affected by the use of nitroglycerin or amyl nitrite. The use of injections of epinephrine—adrenalin—is now more generally used.

Today, while the cause of some cases is unknown, a cause for the majority of cases can be found if diligent search be made. Research workers are now agreed that asthma is not a disease but a group of symptoms with not one but a number of causes.

Drs. P. DeBersaques and A. Berat, in Archives of Medicine-Surgery, Paris, stress the importance of the "constitutional" factor as an underlying cause of asthma and show that effective treatment can be realized only when the complex problem of the make-up or constitution of the asthmatic is clearly understood. They examined forty asthmatics of the hospital. They found that asthmatics were of the high strung, nervous type, much like sufferers with hay fever. There was often rapid heart beat, nervous (thinking an ailment present when none exists), and also emotional disturbances.

Their studies of these forty cases showed that there were three factors in the cause of asthma all of equal importance: (1) the respiratory (nose, throat, lungs) factor, (2) the instability (easily upset) of the nerves controlling the organs of the chest and abdomen, and (3) the liver factor.

Having these three causes in mind they proceeded to treat asthma from the three different standpoints. For the respiratory (breathing) they use epinephrine (adrenalin) and ephedrine; for that part of the nervous system controlling lung, heart and digestion, they use a "quieting" drug such as belladonna and phenobarbital; for the liver or hepatic system they recommend diet methods and liver preparations.

In cases where the asthmatic is allergic or sensitive to certain substances, tests for these substances are made. Among the new methods of treatment are the breathing exercises—blowing air slowly from the lungs—and the use of short wave treatments.

Remember, the patient's general make-up, obstructions of nose, and sensitiveness to various substances, can each and all be the cause of asthmatic attacks.

Allergy

Allergy or sensitiveness to various foods or other substances is a common cause of asthma. Send today for this helpful booklet by Dr. Barton entitled "Allergy" (No. 106), which tells how to find the offending substances and what to do about them. Send your request to The Bell Library, 247 West 43rd Street, New York, N. Y., enclosing ten cents to cover cost of service and handling and mention the name of the Kingston Daily Freeman.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

July 22, 1919.—Thomas Leahy of Sawkill died. Ulster Garden Club met at home of Mrs. Hermon A. Kelley at St. Henry and heard Sidney K. Clapp tell of trees and forestry work done around the Ashokan Reservoir.

Henry L. Carter and Miss Ella V. Redden married.

July 22, 1929.—The Rev. Justin Carey elected provincial of the Eastern Province of the Passionist Order. Father Carey was a former resident of West Hurley where he spent his boyhood.

Miss Catherine A. Lasher of Woodstock died. Death of Mrs. Samuel Buchanan of East Strand. Vernon E. Scott of Washington avenue had narrow escape from serious injury when his car was wrecked in an auto crash at St. James street and Clinton avenue.

An auto of J. W. Hubbard of Elmendorf street and a trolley car were in collision on Broadway. No one was reported injured, but the trolley car was derailed.

The funeral of Elva H. Bogart was held from the late home on Fair street with the Rev. Lucas Boeve of the First Dutch Church officiating.

Senator Hatch Should Get Medal for His Bill to Take Politics Out of Relief System
 By DAVID LAWRENCE

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 22.—If there were a cup or medal or prize offered each year for the man who had done most to advance the character and morality of government, the award would certainly go this time to Senator Carl A. Hatch of New Mexico, Democrat, who has just succeeded in getting through the senate and, with the help of Representative Dempsey of New Mexico, through the house a bill to take politics out of the relief system of the United States.

The measure, which has been sent to the White House for signature, does not by any means go as far as might be wished in the interest of clean politics, but it is such a far-reaching step forward that it represents a milestone in the conduct of federal elections.

The bill, upon close reading, reveals that persons throughout the government, whether engaged in relief work or any other agency or department, cannot "take any active part in political management or in political campaigns" and cannot use their "official authority or influence for the purpose of interfering with an election or affecting the result thereof."

The only exceptions to the rule are the personnel of the White House, the heads and assistant heads of government departments and those officials who hold federal office by virtue of a nomination by the president and confirmation by the senate.

This excludes a large number of influential persons such as Postmaster General Farley, who could continue to be a political manager and a cabinet officer, but it prevents every one of the officials of the government from using their government property or money for campaign purposes, or any part of their "official authority or influence" growing out of any act of congress appropriating money to be used for "work relief, or otherwise to increase employment by providing loans and grants for public works projects."

Nothing in the new legislation prevents high officials from making campaign speeches or any federal employees from expressing his opinions privately as to his "preference." Any opinions expressed, however, which seek to coerce or intimidate other voters would be a violation of the new law.

There are no exceptions at all, incidentally, to that provision of the new measure which says that it is unlawful for "any person" to intimidate, threaten or coerce any other person for the purpose of influencing his vote. It is unlawful also for "any person" without exception "directly or indirectly to promise any employment, position, work, compensation or other benefit provided for or made possible by any act of congress, to any person as consideration for, or reward for, any political activity or for the support or opposition to any candidate or any political party in any election.

This would seem to include party primary contests as well as final elections and would preclude politicians in high or low positions from saying that persons on relief would lose their jobs or benefits, that home owners would have their mortgages foreclosed or that anybody receiving any benefit under any existing law would lose the same if he or she didn't vote as prescribed by the federal employee or high official in question.

These provisions apply to persons in politics either outside or inside the government, whether state officials or state political managers, or in fact to any political precinct worker anywhere in the United States.

Nor is it going to be lawful hereafter for "any person" whether employed by the government or anywhere else, to solicit contributions for to be in any manner concerned in soliciting, any assessment, subscription, or contribution for any political purpose whatever from any person known by him to be entitled to or receiving compensation, employment, or other benefit provided for or made possible by any act of congress appropriating funds for relief purposes.

This means that no state official or local leader can solicit these contributions even for state or city campaigns, nor can they approach contractors or subcontractors working on any projects for which grants or loans have been made by the federal government.

Furthermore, the clause which bars political activity would operate against all United States district attorneys, collectors of customs, and the many hundreds of key officials in local or regional offices of the federal government, irrespective of whether they derive their compensation from relief laws or any other laws. This means that the vast army of subordinate officials cannot participate as delegates to national conventions, for that certainly would be participation in a political campaign. The third term Democrats will be handicapped by this.

The important question is how to get enforcement. The corrupt practices act was flagrantly violated in the 1936 campaign when Democratic campaign books were sold to corporations, but no prosecutions resulted. Maybe, if some future amendment could empower grand juries to take the initiative in rendering indictments and could provide some means of compelling cognizance to be taken of complaints made by citizens, some indictments might result. Nevertheless, the moral effect of the new prohibitions is bound to be felt in the next election because there is always the risk that prosecutions will come if there is a change in administration. ## Tomorrow's House Designed for Living

It Will Banish Today's Inconveniences, But Keep Individuality

By JOAN DURHAM
AP Feature Service Writer

Good news for you people who have been worrying about regimentation in the World of Tomorrow.

You'll live in the kind of house you like.

There won't be that Industrial-Age danger of letting yourself in to your next door neighbor's house by mistake. Your home and his won't look much alike—judging by the 15 homes in the New York World's Fair Town of Tomorrow. All 15 are different.

Common Sense To Survive

Even the building materials differ. Eleven types of exterior wall construction are in the display, from plywood to brick.

Common sense will help you people who plan to build in the World of Tomorrow, however. You'll eliminate a lot of unnecessary items that people who lived today haven't had the foresight to shake off.

The rooms we don't use much today, for instance, will disappear. Big dining rooms won't happen there. Instead, you'll make the most of your living room—where you spend much of your time, anyway—and have just an alcove or a little section of the living room that may be closed off while you eat.

Basements—where many of the fatal accidents occur in today's homes—will vanish. In their place you'll have a "utility" room on the first floor. Your big furnace will be turned into a neat little item over there in the corner, with your air conditioning unit and your laundry equipment right alongside.

Something Old, Too

You'll recognize the necessity for a little privacy, though. All this business of one great big happy livable room won't prevent you from having plenty of bedrooms. (The three or more-bedroom house predominates in the group.)

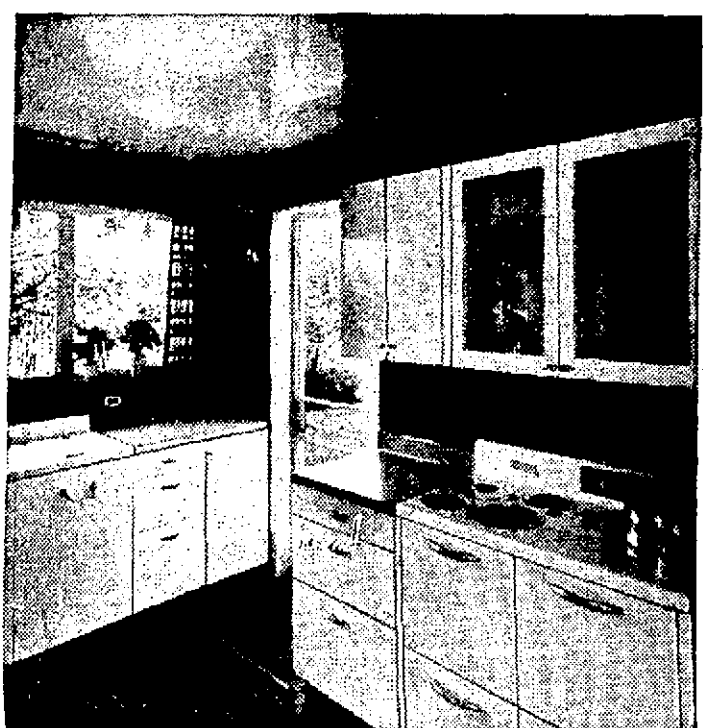

An 18 by 20 living room has a dining alcove that may be cut off by closing a curtain.

You'll also be sentimental enough to hang onto something old—to combine with all of your somethings-new. You'll probably insist on a hearthstone, symbol of the family unit for countless generations. Thirteen of the 15 houses have them.

But some of you will change the traditional two-car garage. Maybe you'll build it onto the front of the house—so you can have space for a big garden at the rear. And maybe you'll have a table tennis table over in one corner, a table you can let down when you drive the car out into the driveway.

There are lots of other things you'll fancy—a garbage disposal unit in your kitchen that reduces all the waste to a pulp you can flush down the drain; a steady cascade of water over your sun-porch roof—which ends in a cool, little pool just beyond your bridge table. (You'll still be playing contract.) And you'll probably fancy a glassed-in sun-deck on the second floor where your grandmother's sleeping porch would have been, or a conservatory you can see from both the living room and the dining room. . . . Because it's set in between them.

Green opaque glass lines the walls of this kitchen of tomorrow and its bountiful windows look out on a yard full of flowers.

Budget Works Wonders For Family Finances

Get Spending under Control

All expenses paid and money left over to carry out your pet plans.

This may sound like a fairy story to you if your family accounts are in the red. But it's what will really happen if you let a budget come to your rescue—entice those runaway dollars back into your purse.

Take your food bill. If you just dip into your purse each day, order what "looks good," your food bill's likely to be high. But try allotting a fixed sum every week. About $10 is a safe food allowance for a family of 4 with a $30 weekly income.

You can stop up leaks in other spending, too. Stick to your list when you go shopping, don't pick up that "cute bargain" unless it's really a money-saving substitute for some item on your list.

And wise to set aside a little each month for health, car expenses. Then unexpected trips to the dentist, repairs on your car won't knock your plans into a cocked hat.

Get full value for your money—on a budget! Our 32-page booklet explains fully how to divide your income, gives advice on shopping, cutting down expenses. Has ruled pages for a year's accounts.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of HOW TO BUDGET AND BUY FOR BETTER LIVING to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth Ave., New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Salad Dressing Tip

When making French dressing or mayonnaise, chill the utensils as well as the ingredients before starting operations. If mayonnaise won't thicken, start over again with another egg yolk, add some oil slowly and beat steadily until the dressing thickens. The slowly added part that did not thicken so that there will be no waste. Remember, to beat steadily all the time.

Leaves With Iron

The darker outer leaves of cabbage and lettuce contain more iron than the paler inside leaves, so be sure to use them. If they have wilted, soak them five minutes in cold water and then store them, covered, in a cold place for an hour or so. Or you can shred them and use in salad or as an edible garnish for salads, meats or fowl.

Rug Washing Days

Pick a windy, warm day on which to wash rugs—they'll dry quicker. Thoroughly launder the rugs in three lukewarm soapy waters and rinse them three times through lukewarm, clear water. Rinsing is very important. Hang them in the shade, pinning them tightly to the line every two inches. This helps keep the edges straight.

Honey Salad Dressing

Something new for fruit salads—use strained honey instead of the sugar called for in French dressing. It gives a delicious, smooth blend. Try it.

Stylish Girls Are Busy as Bees In Efforts to Get Wasp Waists

Come the contour revolution. Ann Rutherford of the movies, will be prepared. Taking a medicine ball in hand she first brings her arms up over her head, then bends forward to touch the ball to her insteps. Note both heels are on the floor.

By BETTY CLARK
AP Feature Service Writer

A lot of smart women who never have worried much about such a thing, have begun to concentrate on achieving a good, old-fashioned wasp waistline.

They know that by fall a few well-moulded curves indented with a well-defined waist will be a figure must, particularly if they mean to try out a bustle or two.

So, instead of relying on a corsetiere to accomplish the impossible they are in training now, preparing for the contour revolution. (Or should we say evolution?) They rely on exercise and diet. Cutting down on desserts and starchy foods is the slow, but sure way. Doing some simple exercises absolutely regularly usually finishes off the good work.

Here are three good ones:

1. This is simply a leg-swing to loosen the muscles around your middle and those in your thighs. First, swing one leg forward, as high as you can. Then swing the same leg backward, arching your body. Repeat eight or ten times with that leg, then do the same with the other.

2. An exercise to make way for the waist line: Lie flat on the floor, stretch your arms above you, keeping your entire body pressed against the floor. Now, swing your legs around to one side and stretch your arms in the same direction. (Your body will be in a half-moon shape). Straighten out and stretch in the other direction.

3. Good, old-fashioned "trunk chalking." Sit with your hands on your hips, as tall and straight as possible, then swing your body around, clock-wise. After swings, repeat the exercise counter-clock-wise.

Six Ways to Observe That Rule: 'One Hot Dish a Day in Summer'

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
AP Feature Service Writer

Keeping family appetites up to par is quite a problem for mother on wilting summer days. To help her, we've worked out half-a-dozen new ideas for hot "main-dishers" for dinner. (You know, at least one hot dish is advisable for digestion's sake, even though the day is a scorcher.) Here they are:

1. Unfold a can of tuna, salmon, corned beef, or meat loaf on a shallow baking dish. Cover with the following sauce and bake 20 minutes in a moderate oven. Melt 3 tablespoons of butter, add 2 tablespoons each of minced parsley, onions and celery and brown for 2 minutes. Pour in 1/2 teaspoon each of salt, paprika and curry powder and 4 tablespoons of flour. Mix, add 2 cups of milk. Cook 2 minutes, stirring constantly and pour over the fish or beef.

2. Bake a fish, cheese, meat or chicken soufflé in a ring mold.

Common Courtesy Toward Other People's Furniture

That chair was meant to sit in, young lady. Look how you're tipping it! Abusing furniture is an offense in many families second only to mistreating children and pets.

For furniture represents an investment and there's not excuse for being careless about it.

Don't sit on the arms of chairs or tilt them when you're sitting in them. It probably would serve you right if an arm came off—or you took a spill.

If you arrive at a party too late to find a seat, stand. You'll look better than you would draped on the arm of a chair in which someone is sitting, anyway. You won't have to screw your neck around to carry on the conversation, either.

Don't move heavy furniture by scooting it along a smooth floor—or ploughing it through a nice, thick rug. One moving job can do a lot of irreparable damage, you know.

Fashion snapshots: New York style maris report fall fashions will make their debut early this year because shops want new tricks to sell Fair visitors. . . . "Ruby silver fox," dyed a gingery henna, is a new fur fad. . . . Paulette Goddard wears sandals with her name stamped in color all over the white satin straps. . . . Favorite beach colors at exclusive beach clubs are white and pale blue. . . . Lots of Paris summer hats are trimmed with fruit—currants, grapes and the like. . . . Smartest color combination to accent sun-tanned skins is beige with frost-white accessories. . . .

Marlene Dietrich wears her lapel flowers in a little gold vase. . . . There's a sentimental trend in some summer costume jewelry made of pastel plastic hearts or flowers. . . . Blackberry (a deep wine) is a smart summer hue—particularly when frosted with white. . . . Lace-trimmed, cotton bariste lingerie reminiscent of grandmother's is much in vogue this summer. . . . Brown furs are heralded as smartest, both for coats and trims, in the coming winter mode. . . . The Duchess of Kent has chosen colorful summer hues; she has costumes in pale cyclamen, sun yellow and a turquoise-green and gray combination. . . . The 1939 vogue for long-sleeved shirts with shorts has left its mark on the smartest beaches. . . . Paris clothes for Queen Narail of Egypt, emphasize blues in an evening gown of spangled turquoise net and a day ensemble in blue and white printed crepe. . . . The Hon. Mrs. Reginald Fellowes wears shoulder straps of contrasting color—one fuchsia pink the other bright green—on her white satin evening gown. . . . Newest pants girdles have been lengthened to reach almost to the knee to give a smooth, unbroken line to the silhouette. . . . Most amusing trick in fall hat trims is a row of gilt "beau-catcher magnets" encircling one of the new bulky crowns. . . . Brenda Frazier goes dancing this summer in a short-sleeved white crepe dinner dress. . . . ## Get on Cyclone? Not Me, Bass Says

Minneapolis, Minn., July 22 (AP)—It all goes to show, reflected Juda Bass, 59-year-old junk peddler, that this thing of streamlining your business can be carried too far.

Sitting in a wheel chair at the General Hospital, nursing an injured foot, Bass asked himself: "For $46 I should get a Kentucky Derby champion?"

"First I have an old plug," he recalled. "I can't walk. In fact, he lays down in the street. I think he is sick."

So Bass goes to South St. Paul and buys himself a new horse. All day long he whips up and down alleys, so busy holding the horse he didn't do much business.

A fine state of affairs, thought Bass. He tried a new tack. He got out and led the horse. Business began to pick up. He had a little time now to attend to it. He had just finished a deal on a mattress and robe when a dog yelped and the horse took off.

Four blocks he ran with Bass limping, waiting behind. There was the prospect of losing his all and there was his foot newly creased by a wagon wheel. Then the wagon broke a wheel and the horse stopped.

"I got a saddle horse, that's what he is," meant Bass. "Why don't you put a saddle on him and ride him," a helpful soul suggested.

"I should get on the back of a cyclone," snorted Bass.

"Never."

SAUGERTIES NEWS

Saugerties, July 22—The Saugerties Board of Education has organized for the 1939-40 school year at a meeting held on Tuesday evening. The officers are J. W. Frankel, president; Lewis Feljows, vice president; Albert Saunders, clerk; William Fiero, treasurer; F. W. Tapp, collector; and Charles Clum, members of the library board for three years. This board will meet the first Monday night in each month and no meeting will be held in August unless business makes it necessary.

The name of Eugene Thornton is being mentioned for the candidacy of supervisor and John A. Martin for the position of collector on the Democratic ticket. Theodore Jensen of Schenectady spent Thursday evening with friends in this village.

The Republican caucus to elect three delegates from each district to attend the convention to be held in Kingston on Saturday July 29 will be held this Saturday evening.

Mrs. Mary Hommel of Partition street is spending some time with her daughter in Beacon.

Miss Pauline Hommel of Partition street is spending some time at Cranberry Lake in the Adirondacks.

Mrs. Minnie Baker of New York has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Lazarus on Main street the past week-end.

Glen Fish, Jr., of Malden, and Charles Emerick and Arthur Richter of this place are vacationing at North Lake in the Catskills.

The pulpit in the Methodist churches of Malden and Quarryville will be occupied by Paul Newkirk of this place Sunday.

Thoburn Collins of Main street is now salesman for the Saugerties Tissue Company.

The next two Sunday evening services to be held at the Cantine Memorial Field will be devoted to "Religion," and delivered by the Rev. Thomas Falshaw and the Rev. William T. Renison. These services are non-sectarian and non-political and each meeting is devoted to the theme "America's Unfinished Business" under the direction of the Saugerties Ministerial Association and the summer activities committee of the Saugerties Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Phelps and son, of Washington avenue are visiting relatives in Larchmont.

The Rev. and Mrs. James Hayes and family are spending the summer months at their camp in Rumney, N. H.

New York, July 22 (AP)—The stock market took another rallying stride today and, despite late profit selling, leading issues retained gains running to around 2 points.

Volume picked up appreciably on the extension of Friday's rally, with transfers of approximately 800,000 shares for the two hour proceedings being the best for a Saturday since April 8.

Steel and motors, along with an assortment of specialties, were out in front at the start, but virtually all departments gave a good account of themselves. A number of new year's highs were in evidence at the close.

Lofts, once more, was the liveliest mover of the list, bouncing up to another new high for 1939. The stock gave ground at the last. In connection with this springer, there were all sorts of conjectures regarding the company's profits from its Pepsi-Cola holdings.

Celanese, Bayuk Cigar, Brooklyn Union Gas and American Airlines made new tops and strength was shown by U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, American Telephone, Great Northern, Anacosta, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Standard Oil of N. J., and Johns-Manville.

Bonds leaped forward. Grain futures were slightly mixed, with corn quotations steady.

In the curb Phoenix Securities gained a major fraction on heavy turnover. Others ahead were Electric Bond & Share, Lockheed and American Gas & Electric.

Reported Safe
Hankow, China, July 22 (AP)—The Rev. L. W. Holland, Methodist missionary from Pasadena, Cal., has written the United States consul-general here reporting that he and other missionaries at Nanchang are safe and well.

The United States consulate started an investigation a month ago following a report by Domei (Japanese news agency) that Holland had been arrested on charges of carrying on anti-Japanese propaganda. The consulate expressed concern over the case.

Jack Reible Arrested

Jack Reible, 36, who carried a card with him showing he was employed on the WPA in New York city, was arrested in Forsyth Park on Friday charged with having in his possession indecent pictures. This morning he pleaded guilty and Judge Cahill sentenced him to 10 days in jail, but suspended the serving of the sentence, provided he left town at once. William Sullivan of Green street charged with public intoxication was fined $3.

All for Tobacco

Moundsville, W. Va., July 22 (AP)—A relief child accused of "harving" his small children while he spent his meager earnings for chewing tobacco drew a fine of $25 in magistrate court after promising "to do better." Louis White, 25, was convicted last night of "wilfully abusing and neglecting necessary treatment of two minor children." White, who said he earned 25 to 75 cents occasionally by hauling junk, was given three days to raise the $25.

Loyalty Failed

Rochester, N. Y., July 22 (AP)—Sticking to his WPA job when 300 Germans walked out didn't help John Connolly, 54, WPA official, who had promised him a pay increase, found later he came under the new federal law forcing all WPA workers employed 13 consecutive months to take a 30-day furlough. Connolly didn't have a job today.

Music Banned

Rome, July 22 (AP)—Dino Alfieri, minister of popular culture, today named a sub-committee "for the discipline of Italian light music" and instructed it to compile a list of musical pieces to be banned. The order was interpreted to mean that all light music by Jewish composers, regardless of nationality, was destined for eventual elimination, including a large number of popular American melodies.

Woman Arrested

Beatrice Struber, 29, was arrested at Port Even last evening by Deputy Sheriff McCullough and Segelken for public intoxication. She was brought to jail to await a hearing before Justice of the Peace Benjamin Sleight.

Held for Hearing

Charles Barger, 50, of 120 East 100th street, New York city, was arrested for public intoxication by State Troopers Dunn and Maist at Phoenixia and held for a hearing before Justice W. C. Weyman.

Sleeping sickness in horses apparently is caused by mosquitoes and other blood-sucking insects, pathologists say.
